Work Experience

Loyola University Chicago

Chicago, IL

Peer Navigator

August 2025 – Present

- Serving as a role model, mentor, and support system for first-year students as they transition to college life. Co-facilitating classroom sessions alongside a lead instructor, fostering an inclusive, supportive environment where students feel heard, validated, and empowered to succeed.

Revere: Civic Engagement Mobile Platform (<https://revere.social>)

Indianapolis, IN (Remote)

Founder, Director of Marketing and Brand Development

May 2025 – Present

- I lead marketing and branding strategy for Revere, a mobile platform that strengthens community engagement. My role is designing app and website UI, building the website and optimizing SEO, as well as collaborating with both the software development and design teams to create a cohesive brand identity.

Traders Point Pediatrics

Indianapolis, IN (Remote)

Director of Social Media and Marketing

January 2025 – Present

- As the head of social media and marketing, I am responsible for brainstorming, designing, and producing content for the practice's social media platforms, as well as suggesting SEO and UI improvements for the website. My role includes creating engaging and educational social media content, as well as managing a content schedule for consistent posting. I also analyze engagement metrics and ensure brand alignment across all channels to effectively connect with the community and grow the practice's online presence.

Journalist and Photographer

January 2025 – Present

- As a contributor for The Loyola Phoenix, I research, write, and edit articles covering a range of topics relevant to the Loyola University Chicago community. My work involves conducting interviews, fact-checking sources, and crafting compelling narratives that inform and engage readers. I collaborate with editors and fellow writers to meet deadlines and ensure high-quality reporting, contributing to the publication's mission of delivering accurate and impactful journalism.

Hoosier Health Matters Podcast (<https://hoosierhealthmatters.buzzsprout.com/>)

Indianapolis, IN (Remote)

Producer and Editor

January 2025 – September 2025

- As the producer and editor for Hoosier Health Matters, a semi-weekly public health podcast, I oversaw all aspects of podcast production, from recording to editing and publishing. I ensured high-quality audio storytelling by refining interviews and recordings, enhancing sound design, and structuring engaging and timely episodes that inform listeners on pressing healthcare and legislative topics.
